MATCH SUMMARY

Caen opens the scoring in the first period, but Le Puy reacts and passes before the break. The locals create other possibilities without taking any further ahead. After the recovery, Caen has the ball more often and returns to a tie on one of his chances. Le Puy is still trying to score at the end of the game, but the two teams part in a draw.

PLAYER SUMMARY MATCH

Aligned as a left piston, Fatahine brings especially when he has to defend his side. He wins the majority of his defensive duels and recovers balls, which helps Le Puy to interrupt Caen's attacks. His interceptions complete this work. He also progresses to the ball and succeeds in several of his dribbling. With the ball, his performance is less secure. Many passes do not reach a partner, especially when they look further. None of its centers find a recipient, despite several attempts, and a significant part of the possessions it loses is in its half of the field. He nevertheless prepares a strike for a partner. His direct defense and his ball to the feet are useful, but he must better keep the ball and find his partners after gaining ground.

STRENGTHS OBSERVED

MATCH SUMMARY

Le Puy won narrowly on the Aubagne field. Tied at the break, the visitors make the difference in the second half and finish the game without cashing. A tight success, with a single goal away from the final whistle.

PLAYER SUMMARY MATCH

Aligned as a left piston, Fatahine brings especially in the defensive phases. He cuts several opposing passes and thus recovers balls in his lane. He encounters more difficulties in duels on the ground, where he is often beaten, despite aerial opposition won. With the ball, his performance is less convincing. Too many passes do not arrive at the destination, in the short game as on long transmissions, which limits the continuity of actions. He nevertheless manages to find a partner in the area on a center. His offensive contribution remains to be developed: more accuracy in his passes would allow him to better accompany the attacks. A meeting where his interceptions are useful, but where he must better keep the ball and weigh more in the duels.

STRENGTHS OBSERVED

- Cut several opposing passes and allows his team to recover the ball.
- wins his aerial duel, a positive point on this intervention.
- Find a partner in the area on a successful center.

AXES OF PROGRESS

- Be more specific in short passes to avoid cutting off your team's actions.
- Earn more duels on the ground to better defend your lane.
- Better dosage your long passes to find your partners and maintain possession.

MATCH SUMMARY

Le Puy welcomes Thionville and obtains a close success. No goal is scored before the break. The locals find the difference when they return from the locker room and keep their goal in advance until the end of the match.

PLAYER SUMMARY MATCH

Used as a left piston, Fatahine directly contributes to the success of Puy with a decisive pass. Its centers find the partners more than in several other meetings of the period. He is also present at recovery, with interceptions that interrupt Thionville exchanges. This useful contribution should not mask its difficulties with the ball. Player Summary Evaluation Orientation

01 PLAYER SUMMARY

Fatahine is a left-hander used mainly as a piston at Le Puy, with the possibility of playing sideways. He can bring in the last meters by serving a partner on a goal, but this efficiency is not found in all his encounters. His centers still lack regularity: he manages to find partners in the box, then crosses other matches where his balls rarely end. He regularly participates in the recovery by his interceptions and the balloons that he takes back. He is less constant against his direct opponent, both on the ground and in the air. His best performances combine a concrete offensive contribution to duels won; Its less good are marked by the possessions rendered and the difficulties in the oppositions. He must better keep the ball and defend his lane with more security to make his contribution more complete.

05 SUMMARY OF THE CELL'S DECISION-MAKING

Current level Very good for the league 3. His decisive contributions and regular participation in recovery explain this appreciation. However, she must be confronted with the irregularity of her duels and her ball losses: her level of performance still varies significantly from one match to another. excellent potential level envisaged in the long term for the League 2. This projection is based on its ability to contribute to attacks from the corridor and to recover balloons. To support her, he will have to gain precision in the centers, better protect his possessions and be more reliable in duels in the face of more demanding opposition. Adequacy to the needs of the club General orientation: no specific club need is informed for this file. Conclusion and final opinion of the Fatahine cell deserves to remain followed for a left piston role. He can bring through his last passes and his recovery work, but his benefits remain irregular. He must keep the ball better and be more reliable against his direct opponent. The priority of the follow-up is to check if he can repeat complete performances: defend his lane, remain precise under pressure and find his partners in the last few meters. For use as lateral, its regularity in duels should be the subject of special attention.
